WAGE AGAINST
the great good. Bourbon friends believe it not we have such—took exception the other day to our reiterated statement in this column that there was nothing to indicate a betterment in conditions.

Naturally we had based our conclusions on personal observations and facts acquired through reading, but these did not apparently have an impression on our friend, reminding one of the ancient and time-worn statement that there is none so blind as those who do not wish to see.
WISH IT DIFFERENT

No one person in the world would feel happier if in a position to tell the waiting populace that all was well with the world, and particularly that portion of it known as the United States. Were such a pronouncement possible, it would mean that the depression was but a bad memory, and that men, women and children were living life as it should be lived, and getting comfort and pleasure out of it, instead of being oppreised by the constant fear of the uncertainty of the next meal.

Personally I would much rather be an optimist than a pessimist, and I still advocate keeping the old chin high in the grim struggle with fortune. However, I do not propose to put on blinkers and shut my eyes to facts, for the recognition of conditions, as they are, means that sooner or later someone will find the solution. It may sound somorous to say, that unemployment is being mopped up and things generally are returning to normal, but even that optimistic attitude does not provide jobs, cause the wheels of industry to turn, or feed and clothe anybody. And those things must be done, for the situation is

DEATH FOR TWO FELONS
IS VERDICT

Target

SAN RAFAEL, April 4.—A superior court jury today found Alex Hunter, alias McKay and Joe Jason, alias Kristy, ringleaders of the San Quentin prison break in which members of the state board of inmates were kidnapped and used as bullet shields, guilty and decreed that they must die.

The jury, in Judge E. L. Butler's court, found the pair guilty on all counts of 11 indictments, charing kidnapping, burglary, robbery and grand theft.

Two of the indictments involved the new "Lindbergh law" recently enacted by the state, which carries the death penalty.

OUT SIX HOURS

The jury's verdict was filed after six hours' deliberation. The case went to the jury at 11 o'clock. The jury went to lunch, and upon their return notified Judge Butler that they wished "further instructions." They returned to the courtroom. It asked that the Lindbergh law be read to it and also the indictments that carried the death penalty.

Both the convicts and their attorneys expected a recommendation for mercy. The jury, outside of its request for further instructions,

CANDIDATES AT CLUB MEETING

Candidates for City Council were guest speakers last night at the meeting of the Phelan Democratic Club at Lincoln school auditorium.

Among the speakers were Walter Johnson, John Bell, Dr. A. B. Hinkley, Joseph Perasso, Lud Johnson, Al Lambert and Harry Burt. Each of these candidates told of his campaign platform, declaring that "there will be no mud slinging."

A. A. Hughes, president of the club, introduced the speakers.

The club will hold a candidates' whist party—the club providing the prizes—on the evening of April 21 at the Memorial hall. On the committee for the evening are Tom De-vane, Sid Dommes, Charles Drexel and Robert J. Adams.

Chinese Held In S. F. Murder

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—UP—One Chinese was held here today on murder charges in connection with Sunday's "gangster" slaying of Harry Chan, asserted narcotics hijacker, while two of five suspects "jailed" in Portland were released.

Chan's killing threatened for a time to develop into a violent conflict between the Bing Kong and Suey Sing tongs, but the counsel of peace society elders staved off the outbreak.

The man charged here was Jue Yen, Pierced, who was named by Chan in a dying statement as one of his attackers. The Portland authorities said they would release Joe Hong, B. Y. Yee and Tom Too unless the San Francisco police got in touch with them immediately. Fong Hung and Way Hing were the two freed today.

Chan was shot down in a vacant lot by three Orientals who converged on him with drawn guns.

RITES SET FOR TODAY

Funeral services will be held from the Wills and Kratzel chapel this afternoon at 2 o'clock for the late Charles A. Gordon,

Speaking of Sports

SARASOTA, Fla., April 4—UP—

There will be plenty of activity on the west coast of Florida this summer with two big tarpon fishing tournaments, with more than $2,000 in prizes, including $1,000 in each leading the program to start May 15.

Anglers all over the country have been writing in for a bigger and better International Tarpon tournament this year, principally because of better business conditions, so the Sarasota County Anglers club, sponsoring the tournaments, decided on a bigger prize list.

Then there is another tournament to be held at Venice-Nokomina, just south of here, with the $1,000 in three prizes of $500, $350 and $150. This competition will be open only to those anglers who come south on special all-expense tours arranged by one of the railroads in co-operation with the Venice-Nokomina Chamber of Commerce. The anglers will come from New York and other points east of Washington.

The opening of the two tournaments is dependent, of course, upon the arrival of the tarpon in these waters from the Florida Keys, where they now are reported. But each year finds the tarpon here in great numbers by May 15, and the "old mariners" cannot find any signs to indicate that the time will be earlier or later this season.

WAR PROFITS BILL LASHED BY SENATORS

WASHINGTON, April 4.—UP—Opponents of the McSwain bill, designed to take the profit out of war, condemned it in the House today as lukewarm, listless attack on the problem of how to keep the United States forever at peace.

A vote will be taken tomorrow on the measure, which, if passed, will be sent to the senate.

The McSwain bill calls for a universal conscription of manpower in event of war—the drafting of men, not only to fight, but to dig ditches and forge ingots in steel factories. Against that provision the American Federation of Labor rose in wrath today. William Green, its president, wrote a letter saying his organization could not support the bill unless it was amended to make it impossible for the government to conscript labor.

What labor fears is that conscription will freeze the wage scale at low level. On that subject Representative Everett Dirksen, Republican, Illinois, who earned $1 a day for assaulting the Hindenburg line, made a speech.

"I know something about what it means to lie in a pup tent in the mud," he said. "I know something about what it means to walk into the withering fire of machine guns nested in concrete placements. Those of us who went across did all that, and then when we landed back home at Hoboken and found stevedores wearing silk shirts and earning $12 a day, we wondered about war and its profits.

"And so we became fired with zeal to conscript labor and to take away the profits from any war to come. But I don't think this bill will do it, and I am going to vote against it."

In the midst of rumors of the possibility of war to the east and west of America, all voices in Congress spoke today for peace. The House was not arguing whether war was desirable or imminent; it was arguing on which was the most efficient formula for keeping peace by making war barren of financial profit. Opponents complained that the McSwain bill would not remove the profit from war because it does not contain a provision for taxing profiteers.

"This bill is a flabby, spineless document which ought to be rechristened the jelly fish bill," said Representative Harry Sauthoff, Progressive, Wisconsin.

ARMED CONDITIONS

Today's actual conditions cannot best be portrayed by a news article which has come to my desk from the division of public relations, San Francisco Emergency Relief Administration, in San Francisco. I am sorry it is so unattractive, and it is equally certain that that agency would not appreciate the facts to the contrary its tendency, if in any direction, would be to minimize them. It is not a very nice picture that is painted with the dark colors of misery and want but undoubtedly it is a true picture. The article says:

EMPLOYMENT FACTS

"One out of every six persons in the United States is now supported by unemployment relief, according to David L. Bryant, S.E.R.A. statistician.

The cost is $100 a week for each family, $1,000,000 a month, two billion dollars a year of Federal, State and local funds. This sum represents less than 5 percent of the present national income.

The cost of public relief, today, 27 times the 1929 figure, has raised the cost of Federal, State and local governments 20 percent.

"While contributions from private charities are as great as ever, they now form only 2 percent of the total relief expenditures, though in 1929 they formed 25 percent.

"The Federal share of relief funds has been raised by borrowing. Two-thirds of the State and local tax come from special taxes, with one-third $330,000,000 financed by bonds maturing for periods of five to twenty years.

"The Federal government pays 75 percent of the current relief bill, though it pays a different proportion in different States, supplying deficiencies between local requirements and local funds."

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

TRADE MARK

WASHINGTON, April 4—Both the Army and Navy have been conducting vigorous undercover campaigns recently to unearth foreign espionage in this country. The Army has been particularly careful along the Panama Canal. Almost its whole route is guarded as in wartime.

But the other day a Japanese naval captain was discovered serving as mess boy on the Army transport Chaumont which regularly traverses the canal. He had passed as a Filipino.

And for six months he had served food to officers, worked under the very nose of the War Department.

Now the United States has no census against spies of this kind, since the Espionage Act comes into force only with the declaration of war. The Japanese naval captain was deported.

AGRICULTURAL PORK

George Peck may be down but is not out.

The burly Foreign Trade Advisor of the Roosevelt has just overtaken his own in the House Agricultural Committee at the expense of Secretary Wallace and the generalizations of the AAA, which Peck once commanded.

Entirely disregarding the President's injunction that all Administration legislative pronouncements must obtain the approval of "Assistant President" Donald Richberg, Peck went directly to the House Committee. He got it to incorporate far-reaching changes in the new farm bill.

These amendments if enacted into law will shift the whole axis of the Triple A.

From a policy of crop control, its program would be shifted to one of unlimited production and subsidized exports—or, as it is better known, government-financed foreign dumping.

This agricultural relief formula, initiated for more than a decade in the guise of the McNary-Haugen equalization fee bill, is the All-in-One to professional farm leaders. Peck is one of their leaders.

Wallace, Tugwell and other formulators of the Administration's agricultural program, consider the plan unsound and dangerous.

They prevented its incorporation in the Triple A act in 1933, and "Beyond Bengal" is thrilling action and adventure, offering savagery and native in real life drama. The story revolves around Ali and Bee, sweethearts, and concerns their romance which flourishes amid the nests of the jungle. The thrillers are to end in their fight for life against deadly crocodiles and giant tigers that infest the jungle regions along which the story is filmed.

"Car 99" is a fast-moving drama revealing the secrets of State police as told in Saturday Evening Post articles. The other part of the bill is a film of jungle life, "Beyond Bengal."

Negro Slayer Will Hang Today

SAN QUENTIN, April 4.—Rush Griffin, 19 year old Los Angeles Negro convicted of the murder of Lawrence L. Lyons, 27, former University of Southern California medical student, will die on the gallows at San Quentin prison at 1 o'clock tomorrow morning.

But another section of the bill requires the Government to use 20 per cent of the annual customs collections—approximately $100,000,000—to finance foreign dumping of farm products.

It also empowers the Secretary of Agriculture to use all funds obtained in 1934—for a like purpose. In practice these last two provisions will mean only one thing—complete nullification of the permissive feature. For no Administration could withstand the tremendous political pressure to leave with it the new farm bill.

Nominally the amendment as written is only permissive.

Dr. Leo Wolman is telling close friends that he will retire soon as chairman of the Auto Labor Board.

If so he may have a hard time securing Senate confirmation.

EL PASO, Tex., April 4—UP—Hollywood, much to the delight of aviation companies, has sprouted wings.

While producers look on in dismay, the actors and actresses jump from coast to coast in airplanes as frequently as shooting schedules will allow.

Many of the actors are licensed pilots and own their own planes.

Ken Maynard, western picture star, began flying back in his own plane on a belated honeymoon.

Wallace Beery owns a two-seater and flies around the country, when not working. Clarence Brown, well-known director, is another who makes frequent cross-country flights.

Other aviation enthusiasts are Douglas Fairbanks, Ben Lyon and Mrs. Lyon (Ethel Daniels), Robert Montgomery, Eric Portman, Hoot Gibson, Paul Lukas and others.

Frequent commuters by plane to New York are Katherine Hepburn, Miriam Hopkins, Ann Harding and Mary Pickford.

Miss Pickford claims she has flown more miles than any other actress in Hollywood. She took to planes when her travel was considered a way to commit suicide quickly.

Ben Daniels takes her small daughter for family excursions in the plane which husband Ben Lyons flies.

Harron Nelson, husband of Betty Davis, blonde star, commutes several times weekly from San Francisco to Los Angeles to see his wife.

Marian Marsh, frequently flies with Howard Hughes, millionaire film producer with the millionaire being his own pilot.

BACK HOME AGAIN

Manchu Emperor Going To Japan

TOKYO, April 4—UP—Harbinger of good luck, two cranes flew over the Japanese battleship Hiy today as the warship proceeded toward Japan with Emperor Kang Tai of Manchukuo aboard.

There was great rejoicing aboard the battleship as the long-legged birds circled the craft. To Japan they were propitiatory omens, indicating happiness, prosperity and general well being for the Imperial Ruler and his retinue.

Broadcasts from the battleship kept the Japanese public informed of her progress and of the activities of the young emperor who never was convinced of their guilt."

The startling development was provided in an affidavit read in court today. It was signed by Howard S. McIntyre, for 25 years an employee of the State Adjutant general.

After hearing the document, Judge Dal M. Lemmon continued hearing of the petition of Defense Counsel Leo Gallagher for a new trial until Wednesday.

In addition, it was disclosed the district attorney's office, which had no part in the prosecution, was investigating a story in a local newspaper that a hole had been bored in the ceiling of the juryroom from the attic by an eavesdropper.

Judge Lemmon said he was "satisfied" no one actually spied on the jury, because it had been moved to another room when bits of plaster were found on the floor.

McIntyre's statement agreed for conviction on the conspiracy charge, if the jurors would vote not guilty in every instance where actual violation of the criminal syndicalism laws was charged.

The verdict was entirely a compromise, he stated, adding he wished to make a statement because he was "not convinced nor ever was convinced of the guilt of any of the defendants."

Judge Lemmon declared the evidence of a compromise verdict did not constitute impeachment of the verdict unless it was proved the jury made its decision by "chance".

Bible Class Will Have Big Social

The public has been cordially invited to attend the ice cream social to be held this evening at the First Baptist church by the Ladies' Bible Class.

Mrs. Mary Myers has charge of the event. It is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance.

After-Effects of Diphtheria Are Very Serious And Can Attack Almost Any Part of the Body

THE literature on the subject of diphtheria is quite equal, if it does not exceed, the output of professional opinion on any other disease. Epidemics of diphtheria have been known in England and France for a long time back, and in the middle of the sixteenth century. Later reports from Spain, France, and Italy said to be of need accounts, and show that travel and communication were increasing and extending. The story of infection does not appear in the geographical and sociological of the day. Well along in the seventeenth century, we find the first reference to the appearance of diphtheria in America. A number of children were said to have died from diphtheria in the windpipe.

Then, a hundred years or so ago, notes began to be taken of the fact that in many cases which were supposed to be caused by the hoarseness and rasping cough, there was found this same bluish-like skin or membrane that spread over all the throat. And while the pathologists continued to argue over the difference of a similar disease, diphtheria and diphtheria, the children who were the sufferers continued to die. Some, who didn't die, suffered the consequences of the disease through life.

THERE IS general agreement upon the fact that the inflammation which goes along with diphtheria has a truly degenerative character. This is in considering the very extensive damage that can be done by this disease. The disastrous effect often produced upon the heart is due not only to the toxic action on the heart muscle itself, but to the weakening of the entire system of the circulation of the blood.

This is blamed partly to the dilation of the blood vessels and further to the actual injury to the walls of the arteries. Where there is deep infiltration of the diphtheria membrane into the tissues of the throat, there may even be hemorrhage in severe cases.

There is usually a report of the progressive fall of both the diastolic and systolic blood pressure, indicating a failure somewhere of the circulatory machinery.

The use of the electric indicator, by which we now make cardiograms or graphs of the heart action is being extended. It allows the physician to make an easier diagnosis than can be made by the stethoscope. A permanent induration or sloughing off of the membranes of the nose is not infrequent. Thus a chronic nasal catarrh with enlargement of the uvula and tonsils may be expected.

THE EYES are endangered, not only by the occasional paroxysm which affects the eye muscles, but by a diphtheritic conjunctivitis. In occasional cases an ulceration may result.

There are almost always injured permanently by any serious toxic inflammation which involves the throat. Perhaps the worst form is when the bony mastoid process is broken down. Serious trouble in the larynx is a part of any bad case of diphtheria. The swelling and inflammation, together with the breathing, and unless the proper remedy have been used early, the disease advances and we have all the distress of suffocation and carbonic acid gas poisoning.

The kidneys are perhaps the most actively involved of the internal organs during a diphtheritic attack. And it is produced by large and small quantities and at irregular times with the elimination of membranes.

Lastly, the nervous system is a frequent victim. Imperfect speech and difficulty in swallowing show the effect upon the throat muscles. The nervous paroxysms are very irregular in location and in their duration. Through this usually improve with treatment, it is a tedious and wearing process.

Guide to Charm BEAUTY MASKS BLOT OUT LINES, REVIVIFY FACE

By JACQUELINE HUNT

THESE are something particularly exciting about mask. It is a special wand that wiped your skin clean, blot out lines and blemishes and sallowness and leaves it pink, glowing and youthful. No wonder then the beauticians study this ancient art and guard their formulas jealously.

The secret of masks is their stimulating effect on the skin. Masks should be applied by a mask specialist and this is a simple method of arousing the circulation since it does not involve massage and the most inexperienced woman can try it in her own home.

There are many thrilling mixtures that you can buy for this purpose, or you can make your own masks from simple ingredients on your own pastes.

If your skin is sensitive, yet shallow and in need of stimulation, get a can of almond meal from your druggist or from your favorite maid service.

This can be used in several different kinds of masks and it is grand for cleansing and clearing your skin of blackheads and clogged pores.

Or the simplest of the facial masks is made of pure, warm sweet oils and almond meal mixed to a paste that spreads easily. Cleanse your skin thoroughly with cleansing or cold cream before using the mask. Also cut holes for the eyes and nostrils from a source of cheesecloth that is large enough to cover your face.

Apply softening cream liberally, especially around the eyes and leave on a few minutes. Remove the excess and then dip the gaze mask in warm milk. Press it over your skin and lay back in a comfortable chair, spread the gaze with the paste of milk and almond meal. Lay your eyes and rest for a little while, then mask does its work. It should dry thoroughly. Remove by lifting the gaze from your face. Bathe the skin in warm milk, then rinse with tepid water and pat with a gentle skin tonic.

A similar, but somewhat stronger mask is made by mixing pastes with almond meal, the yolk of an egg and enough rose water to give a mixture that spreads easily. This leaves your skin delightfully smooth and several degrees fairer.

There is another preparation that you can buy in the form of a powder and mix with warm water at home that clears the clogged pores, blackheads and slightly stretching. Just mix some of this powder with a little warm water or skin tonic and work into the skin with your fingers, especially around the nose, chin and forehead where clogged pores are most common. Let it dry on the skin then rinse away and use skin tonic.

Mary Moore, New Metropolitan Soprano, Got Her Chance Because of a Kind Man and a Flute

WHEN a singer reaches a pinnacle of ambition—a debut at the Metropolitan Opera House—one thinks immediately of years of training and a long career of opera in Europe as preparation. However, Mary Moore, who recently made her Metropolitan debut to much applause, has never sung farther away from New York than Baltimore; most of the time, in fact, her traveling was confined to a radius of two miles from her Amsterdam Avenue home.

Her first professional career got its start through a kindly man and a flute. Her uncle took her, a wistful little girl, down to see the late William J. Guard, the Metropolitan's famous publicity representative.

"I think she has a voice," said the uncle.

So Bill Guard brought out the flute he was wont to play for diversion, and at music critics' parties and had Mary do some trifles.

"Yes, she can sing," said Bill, and backed up his judgment by letting her in to see all the operas, and arranging for her instruction.

Beauty Tips

QUESTION: "Will you kindly explain the simple home exercises that you can do for the face? I am in the process of getting rid of lines around the waist and hips and also for reducing a protruding abdomen." Also tell me what diet to use during the period of reducing, and for how long—E. B."

Will you please send me your complete name and address with a self-addressed envelope so that I can send you a copy of my leaflet on "How to Be Beautiful" which includes exercises and general directions? I also have a little booklet of reducing diet menus that I am sure you would find useful. A complete discussion of reducing is much too lengthy to discuss in the brief space available here.

QUESTION: "Although I am under twenty, my cheeks are hollow and sag and I have dark circles under my eyes. Can you tell me what causes them and how I can eliminate them?"—Molly

First of all I suspect you are underweight and need more rest and a more nourishing diet. If you will send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I will be glad to send you a leaflet on gaining weight. The hollow cheeks and dark circles may also mean that you smoke too much or go to too many parties or that you need medical attention. I can hardly advise a beauty routine for you until you have taken steps to improve your health.

As soon as you get home and into a gay house frock, make your fruit salad and put to chill. Open the can of corned beef and make into patties ready to brown crisply on each side in hot fat. Set your eggs to boil, not forgetting the time for the eggs to make toast at the table. Open the can of beans, heat and dress with butter and seasoning. Poach the eggs, brown the hash, make the coffee, put cheese on the crackers and let melt under the broiler. Open your pineapple juice, beat it to a froth, pour into the glasses and announce dinner.

After the first course is finished, excuse yourself long enough to whip cream for your fruit salad which also serves as a dessert. Have additional crackers for those who want them.

The second menu requires a bit more advanced preparation, which can be done the night before. If you are planning before you go to your place of business, Scrape tiny carrots, wrap in a damp cloth and out into a tightly covered container in the refrigerator. Shell the peas and grate the cheese for your omelet. Make your dessert the night before.

As soon as you get home put the peas and carrots in salted water, stuff your cavity and open a can of tomato soup. Boil water for your teapot and make the omelet which should be served sizzling hot as soon as it comes from the stove. That is all there is to it and everyone will enjoy this easy to prepare springlike meal.

Here is the recipe for the pineapple rice cream.

Soften one and one-half tablespoons gelatin in one-fourth cup cold water, add one and one-half cups pineapple juice that has been heated and stir until dissolved. Add one tablespoon

Modes and Manners

QUESTION: "When a man takes two women out to dine at a restaurant, how should they be seated?"—Joseph G.

ANSWER: The women should be seated facing each other, with the gentleman in-between.

QUESTION: "Who pours the coffee when a man takes a girl to dine in a restaurant and they are served coffee in a single order?"—W. H.

ANSWER: As the host, it is the man's place to pour the coffee. But if he happens to be engrossed in conversation or is forgetful, the woman may take it upon herself to do the pouring for both of them, providing the pot is placed between them and she can get at it conveniently.

You and Your Child ELDERS CAN AID CHILD TO LEARN BY EXPERIENCE

By JANE HERBERT GOWARD

EXPERIENCE is the best teacher, and the assumption therefore is that everyone learns from experience. But unfortunately, those who need such education most—little children—frequently are denied the chance. And by their own parents.

The manner in which skirt fashions are disposed is varied in treatment but unanimous in the endorsement of width at hem. In some instances the skirt is belted toward the hem through gored panels at front or by gored effects achieved by pressed in "seamed" lines.

Marcel Rochas advances a combination of the belted plus at waist and low-cut fullness, while for evening the fullness becomes exaggerated, suggesting bodices that are pressed to make the line more restrained. Fullness starting from the waist is a favorite in evening dresses with Chanel's lower placement an exception to this more general rule. Skirts escape the floor rather than trail.

In the black crepe model which takes the shirtwaist frock and cravat for its theme, a hint of a peplum is introduced in the pleated section at back only; the back of the bodice is cut in halter fashion attached to the cravat.

The two-flounce silhouette, coupled with the new shorter skirt length, gives the stiffened chiffon frock a new personality. The choice of a rusty-brown and flat surface embroidery, further identifies it of this season.

At right of the column, gabardine in rumba brown makes a man-tailored dress with patch pockets and single-breasted line.

properly, she took him downtown the next day and bought him another hat, the exact duplicate of the one lost. Thus, because Edgar suffered no real inconvenience for the loss of his cap, it would not be urgent for him to take care of his things in the future.

Here are two parents of averaged intelligence: conscientious, hard-working and with their child's interest at heart. Anyone would imagine them capable of solving so simple a problem. It is as easy as adding one and one: If you lose something the natural consequence is to do without it. "Now you'll have to make your old one do another season," would have been the logical course.

A parent's first act is to help a child learn from experience. To do this he cannot go counter to the laws of cause and effect. That's life; and a child must learn to face it.

Unless you own a tarnish proof chest for storing silver, some precaution against tarnishing should be taken. For instance, silverware may be wrapped in a cloth with a few drops of camphor on the roll to prevent tarnishing.

DEATH FOR TWO FELONS IS VERDICT

gave no indication of its attitude. It returned to the jury room. Shortly before 5 o'clock it returned with its verdict.

FELONS SHAKEN

Both Hunter and Jova were visibly shaken. The defense attorney immediately intimated the court of its intention to appeal. The verdict concluded the most sensational prison break in San Quentin history, during which members of the State Parole Board, in session at the prison, were used as bullet shield. Two of the board were wounded and one convict killed, a companion of the two convicted today, in the chase that resulted in the capture of Hunter and Jova.

Rudolph Straight was the convict killed at the end of the chase. Fred Landers, the fourth man of the break quartet, entered a guilty plea. McKay and Kristy will appear Saturday morning before Judge Butler for sentence, at which time he will rule on the routine motions of the defense staff.

GRANDMOTHER FACES QUIZ IN GIRL'S DEATH

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—UP—Police tonight waited for Mrs. Mark L. Cohn, 66, to recover from the effects of self-administered poison draught and explain the mysterious death of her 11-year-old granddaughter, Margaret Hill.

Margaret died of strangulation, according to a report by Dr. Sherman Leland, autopsy surgeon. Her body was found by her grandfather, Mark Cohn, late last night, stretched on a couch in the Cohn home. Blood, apparently from a hemorrhage, covered the child's clothing.

Mrs. Cohn was found in an adjoining room, unconscious from effects of poison. Throughout the day she rallied only momentarily from a stupor induced by the poison and gas she had inhaled in an apparent suicide attempt.

Police believed she had attempted to take her own life after chastising Margaret. The child was the victim of an enlarged glandular condition which might have caused her to suffer strangulation and hemorrhages if slapped, Dr. Leland said. Faint marks were reported found on her throat.

"I'm sorry" the elderly grandmother mumbled when she regained consciousness at one time and police attempted to question her. "She had a hemorrhage. I don't remember what happened after that," she said at another time.

Mrs. Cohn's condition was reported slightly improved late in the day, and physicians were hopeful that she would recover full consciousness tonight.

5,000 Snakes

WHEN GEORGE VANDERBILT, left, younger son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, returned recently from an African hunting expedition, he was asked if he were engaged to Miss Lucille Parsons, right, with him for ten months. He replied, "No comment." Specimens he brought back included 5,000 reptiles and snakes and 15,000 insects.

Mrs. Hauptmann In Curt Note Fires Defense Attorney

NEW YORK, April 4.—UP—Monday, the root of dissension in the Hauptmann case, has at last separated the round Edward J. Reilly of Brooklyn from the defense of the Bronx murderer.

Reilly was discharged today by Mrs. Bruno Richard Hauptmann because he had the temerity to ask for $25,000 as a fee to defend her husband from the charge of murdering Charles A. Lindbergh.

IS ANGERED

The Brooklyn lawyer, accepting his dismissal with mingled pain and anger, declared he was not in the business of defending clients for his health, and said he would sue the Hauptmann family for his fee. Actually, the quarrel, which has exposed plans for perfecting Hauptmann's appeal from a conviction of first degree murder, arose over the disposition of defense funds raised by Mrs. Hauptmann during her barnstorming tour.

Reilly understood they had reached a total of at least $25,000.

Mrs. Hauptmann and her associates, declared they were less than $20,000.

BOOKS KEPT SECRET

Nobody knows the exact amount of the box office receipts in the Hauptmann lecture tour because the two ex-waiters who have been "managing" the circuit have not exposed their books, if any, to public gaze.

Beyond the money received through meeting contributions in New York and elsewhere, however, there are certain other sums on deposit in a trust fund which can be used for the appeal and for nothing else. C. Lloyd Fisher of Flemington, associate defense counsel, is trustee for that fund.

GETS NOTICE

The latest explosion in the case came today when Reilly received a curt notice from Mrs. Hauptmann who declared, in a carefully registered letter couched in legal terms, that "after conferring with my husband" she had decided to disown his services.

The reaction of the ex-chief counsel was instantaneous. He issued a series of statements loaded with dynamite, intimating that he had information of new evidence on which he might have based an effective plea for a new trial. But he could not be made to say he believed his client was innocent of the extortion of $50,000 from Col.

AUSTRIA TO JOIN NAZIS IN ALLIANCE

schinnig regards permission from the powers as a foregone conclusion.

The next step is believed to be a turning away from Austria's recently-found friends—Italy and Spain—and a re-union of Vienna and Berlin.

The trend at the moment is clearly toward a return to the old friendship and cooperation with Germany—a natural trend among peoples so closely allied by blood, language and tradition.

REIGN IN STRONG

The semi-Fascist regime under Dr. Schuschnigg and Vice Chancellor Prince Rudiger Ernst von Starhemberg remains strong, but few doubt that the days of this so-called "Clerico-Fascist" government are numbered. The government already is on the defensive.

Almost with impunity, the illegal Communist-Socialist United Front, as well as the outlawed Austrian Nazi party, issue floods of propaganda. Weak police efforts to stop it are futile. The police either cannot or will not attempt to check radical agitation.

The Nazis boldly proclaim that the police dare not work against their "patriotic Pan-German educational work." Nazis openly assert the police are near to mutiny. This is exaggerated, but there can be no doubt that such dissatisfaction exists.

Pact Cuts Tariffs

OPERATORS, STRIKERS TO STUDY PACT

out of last summer's strike, Scharrenberg remarked to the arbitrators: "I wish we would have a war with Japan and then perhaps the sailors would get their rights."

SCORES STATEMENT
Larsen said the sailors regarded the statement as injurious and misleading to the public's opinion of the ideals and aims of the organization.

LEFT-WINGERS, led by Harry Bridges, chairman of last summer's general maritime strike committee, failed last week in an attempt to have Scharrenberg censured by the San Francisco labor council.

Scharrenberg himself claimed the words were removed from their context and did not convey what he meant to say. The arbitration board rejected him of any wrong intent.

HOME DAMAGED
San Pedro reported its first act of vandalism in the tanker strike when Capt. J. H. Gunther of the Union Oil company tanker La Placencia, one of the first ships that ran a picket blockade, reported a window of his home had been shattered and a room sprayed with ink.

BLOCKADE BROKEN
PORTLAND, Ore., April 4—UP—Millions of gallons of fuel oil poured into storage tanks in the Portland and Puget Sound areas tonight as striking union seamen stood by with their hands in their pockets.

Police guards were formally as the seamen made no violent protests to further their demand for a closed shop for tankship crews.

UNLOAD GASOLINE
The Standard Oil tanker Lubrico, and the Union Oil tanker La Placencia under Shell Oil charter, added 7,000,000 gallons of fuel oil to the Portland supply.

The vessels came on the Columbia River before daylight.

The Portland area fuel oil supply is now sufficient for two weeks and the gasoline supply one week.
